

ABSTRACT

A process to make rutile pigment from aqueous titanium solutions. The process involves the addition of a catalyst and is conducted under low temperature conditions using comparatively short calcinations times.